NO. 11 KEARNEY ST.

Treats All Chronic and Special Diseases.

YOUNG MEN.

WHO may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretions, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity. Dr. Spinney will guarantee to forfeit $500 for every case of Seminal Weakness or private disease of any kind or character which he undertakes and fails to cure.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN.

There are many at the age of thirty to sixty, who are troubled with too frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation, and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examining the urinary deposits aropy sediment will often be found, and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, the color will be a thin milky hue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration to the genito-urinary organs.

Office hours—10 to 4 and 6 to 8. Sundays from 10 to 11 A. M. Consultation free. Thorough examination and advice, $5.
Call or address,

DR. SPINNEY & CO.

No. 11 Kearney St., San Francisco

P. S.—For private diseases of short standing a full course of medicine, sufficient for a cure, with all instructions, will be sent to any address on receipt of $10.00.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE undersigned Administrator of the estate of Frank Covington, deceased, will, in obedience to an order of the 2nd Judicial District Court, in and for the county of Washoe, offer for sale at public auction, on Saturday, the 13th day of December, A. D. 1882, the following described real property belonging to said estate, to-wit: Lots fifteen (15) and sixteen (16) in Block "H", Lot one in Block "C", Lots three (3) and four (4) in Block "H", and the improvements thereon, said property being situated in the town of Reno, in the county of Washoe and State of Nevada. That said real estate will be offered at public sale on said day, at the door of the Court House, at Reno, in said county of Washoe, between the hour of 9 o'clock in the morning and the setting of the sun on said day, beginning at one o'clock p. m. The terms of the sale are cash down in United States gold coin, ten per cent. of the purchase price must be paid at the time the sale is made to the Administrator, and the remainder when the sale is affirmed by the Court and a deed is executed to the purchaser of the property sold; and further, should the Administrator fail to sell at public auction said property or any part thereof when offered on said day, he will thereafter continue to offer the same at private sale until the whole of said property is sold.

ASSESSMENT NOTICE.

CROWN PRINCE GOLD AND SILVER Mining Co.—Location of Works, Pyramid Mining District, Washoe County, Nevada.

Principal place of business Reno, Washoe County, Nevada.

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Board of Trustees on the 22d day of November, 1882, an assessment (No. 13) of 3% cents per share was levied upon the capital stock of the corporation, payable immediately in U. S. gold coin to the Secretary.

REMOVAL OF THE STATE PRISON.

The Carson Index of recent date has the subjoined:

The Reno Journal in a lengthy editorial opens the discussion as to the propriety of removing the State Prison to Reno. It claims that to maintain the Prison at Carson it costs $50,000 per annum more than the profits on convict labor amount to, and that this condition of affairs will remain in perpetuity unless manufactures to be run by water power can be introduced into the Prison. The Journal therefore perceives the necessity of the proposed removal as a means of economy to the State. It points with some evident pride to the walls which were built under the Bradley regime and concludes that the proposition to erect a series of prison buildings within the enclosure will meet with very little practical opposition.

The people of Ormsby county will very naturally object to this programme, but whether it will be at all effectual remains to be seen. Our delegation two years ago, in the Legislature, did not stand up with any adequate resistance or strength to oppose the location of the Insane Asylum at Reno. It was then felt by our people that the building of the Asylum at that point was but the entering wedge to further proceedings of the same character against the interests of Ormsby. It is greatly to be doubted whether the V. & T. Railroad will not favor the removal of the prison just as it favored the Asylum proposition two years ago.

We are glad the Journal has come out frankly on the Prison question and stated its position. Ormsby people can now look on with interest and see the course and results of the game during the coming Legislative session.

The Index, it will be noticed, does not attempt to refute any of the assertions made by the JOURNAL but seemingly contents itself with the natural declaration that the people of Ormsby will interpose objections to any change of location. The JOURNAL expects that Carson will use every means in its power to prevent the removal, and, if necessary, will repeat the tactics of 1881, for if Dame Rumor can be believed, the sum of $1,500 was placed where it would do the most good at that time to secure the indefinite postponement by the Assembly of the bill that passed the Senate. The manipulators of the lobby will undoubtedly be on hand as usual this Winter, at Carson, and their professional services are generally at the command of the highest bidder. The Index cannot but admit that the Prison in its present location has been and ever will be an expense of $50,000 per annum to the taxpayers of Nevada. It ought to be able to see that there is a chance for a change for the better by removing it to Reno. The sum of $50,000 will complete the new Prison at Reno. The State can well afford to spare this sum now in order to save ten times as much in the years to come. Should the Legislature decide to allow the Prison to remain where it is we hope to have the Index offer some practical suggestions relative to its management which will result in the cost of the maintenance being reduced, even to such an extent, if possible, as will remove all reasons for any person wishing for its removal to any other point.

"MOROTHERIUM."

Carson might possibly survive the loss of the Prison, but Reno now has good cause to rejoice over her implacable adversary. Professor Marsh has recently published a paper before the National Academy of Sciences on the supposed footprints discovered within the Prison enclosure at Carson, and discards the theory advanced by the Professors and savants of San Francisco and the shrimp scientists of Carson that the impressions were made by pre-historic man. Prof. Marsh inclines to the belief that they were made by a gigantic sloth, which he has designated the "Morotherium." If Carson can survive this blow then Reno can boast that she is a foeman worthy of her steel.

Will not be There.

The Candelaria True Fissure says "at the next session of the Nevada Legislature, when the Assembly roll is called and it is asked, 'are you there, Morality?' no voice will reply; but in his stead 'Muldoon, the solid man,' will say aye."

Every 24 hours the people pay into the vaults of the Government, for account of federal taxes, the enormous sum of $1,000,000. For the last fiscal year, the average was considerably in excess of that sum.

General Stoneman, of California, has tendered the position of private Secretary to ex-Senator Morland, and Executive Secretary to H. J. W. Dam. Both gentlemen have accepted.

Secretary Folger has tendered his resignation, so it is reported. Things are evidently shaping so that Mr. Folger will be appointed Justice when Justice Bradley retires.

How They Play Politics in Eureka.

The following is a copy of the ticket on which it is claimed $5,000 was expended in Eureka on the 7th of November. The average politician will observe how nicely the names have been sandwiched in. For the benefit of those who do not dabble in the "filthy pool," the Republican candidates have been designated by an R:

The State University.

The Tuscarora Times-Review says: "Every now and then the question is asked of us where shall we send our boys for training and education? The inquiries are generally propounded with regard to the merits of the various schools in California, while the existence of the State University at Elko is entirely ignored. By recommending the sources of education in a foreign State, we do injustice to ourselves and to an institution which, if better patronized, would in due course of time be able to rival similar institutions in other States. The Principal of the Elko University is a man of no mean attainments. As an instructor of youth he has many admirable qualities. Kind, genial and pains-taking, he inspires his pupils with both confidence and ambition. The surroundings of the Institute are as pleasing and attractive as can be found in a State where its jewels are far beneath the surface, and its adornments in the line of foliage and verdure are confined to sagebrush, with an occasional sprinkling of cedar and cottonwood. To students from abroad no community presents more companionable and home-like associations. Elko has resolved itself into a sober, even-paced and orderly town. They take pride in the mental and moral growth of the children submitted to their charge, and being far removed from the cosmopolitan institutions of California, the students escape many of the allurements to vice which college life creates."

Goat-raising in Texas.

The newspapers of Texas state that very successful efforts have been made to raise Angora goats on a large scale in that State. In the western part of the State there are, it is stated, millions of acres of rocky, hilly undergrowth of live oak that will not support one sheep to twenty acres, one cow to forty acres, or one horse to fifty acres, and are, in fact, utterly worthless, except for the use of goats. These animals can be herded in large flocks with perfect safety and to advantage. A stock-raiser in Western Texas has one herd of 2,000 graded Angoras, headed by one Mexican. In a report to the National Association of Wool Manufacturers, at Boston, Mass., he says that his goats "can be located in Summer eight miles from their watering-place, and drink once in three days, returning to camp the same day—a great item in a dry country. They can be raised, and thrive best, on land worth fifteen to twenty-five cents per acre; they are subject to no disease whatever; they will protect themselves against wolves or dogs, and last but not least, they came home five times out of six if lost on the range." There is, he urges, "not a more agreeable or pretty pursuit in the world than raising Angora goats;" and he adds that although he breeds cattle, horses, and has 3,400 head of Merino ewes, he would, with a little more encouragement as to the sale of hair of first quality, be inclined to give up all interest in other stock, and keep only his "intelligent and valuable Angoras."

Congress will meet next Monday. Neither Senators Jones nor Fair nor Representative Cassidy will be present to look after Nevada's interests.

A Millionaire's Singular Career.

The career of John Goldenberg, who lately died at Weisbaden worth many millions of dollars, was a strange one. He never spoke of his origin, but he was probably born in Galicia. Circumstances led him, while still a young man, to the Levant, and finding no foothold there, he turned his steps towards the East, and eventually found himself in Burmah. He had no sooner crossed the border than he was stopped by a party of natives, who proceeded to ransack his pack, which he carried over his shoulder. Among other articles they found a box of pomade, which, to his amazement they began to eat with great apparent relish. This incident led him to reflect that among such a barbarous people a clever European might make his fortune. He began his operations by trading in teak-wood, and having at length secured the favor of the King by making the first coined money ever seen in Burmah, he obtained a monopoly of the teak forests and advanced rapidly to great prosperity. In 1876 he returned to Europe by way of Pesh, where he married a young girl, from whom he was soon separated. Last Spring he made the acquaintance of Ina Moeller, an Austrian pianist (whose more famous sister is the actress Fauslein Lenau), and last August he married her in London. He died suddenly in Wiesbaden on September 27th, while they were making a wedding tour of Germany. His wife is the sole heir of his vast property.

A Remarkable Suit.

About two years ago a wealthy man named Paige, whose wife was still asleep in the fourth story of a burning hotel at Oshkosh, Wisconsin, offered any person $5,000 if he would rescue her dead or alive. At great peril of his life, the assistant-engineer of the fire Department brought down her dead body. After the funeral was over, however, Mr. Paige did not seem to appreciate her at the same value which he put upon her during the panic and crisis of the calamity. So he refused to pay the reward on the ground that the fireman was bound to do his official duty, and could not contract with a private party for a reward. The lower court sustained this view, but lovers of fair play and haters of curmudgeonly will be glad to know that the Supreme Court reverses this judgment and orders the reward paid, because the official duty of the fireman did not compel him to risk his own life in order to rescue others. Firemen, unlike soldiers, do not contract to risk their lives in the service.

A CURIOUS PERFORMANCE.

About a week ago Colonel Shaw, editor of the Enterprise, addressed a confidential circular to members of the journalistic profession relative to the Reek-Anderson case. The purpose of the author of the circular was simply to have newspaper men combine and render such assistance in the matter as would result in securing all the evidence possible in the case. It was such a circular as, while containing nothing which any man might not read, was intended for the eyes of newspaper men alone. It was not to be supposed that a single paper in the State would violate the rule of etiquette to publish a circular upon the margin of which the word "Confidential" was printed. The rule was violated, however, and by the Eureka Sentinel.—[Carson Appeal.]

Another Polar Expedition.

The frozen regions of the North are still as fascinating as ever to the adventurous spirits of the world. The Naples journals allude with natural satisfaction to the Danish Polar expedition which left Copenhagen on the 18th of July. Lieutenant Alberto de Renzis, a Neapolitan, who holds a commission in the Italian navy, had been admitted to take part in the expedition. De Renzis writes, on the 2d of August from Vardoe, the extreme port of northern Europe, to Prince De Teano, President of the Geographical Society, and gives the following details of the programme of the enterprise: "The Dymphna is to weigh anchor on the 3d instant for the Sea of Kara. The object of the expedition is to reach Cape Celinskin, the extreme promontory of Asia, and thence make its way to the North. The Dymphna is a vessel of 150 tons, and has on board six scientific men and a crew of fourteen persons, all Danes except myself (De Renzis). She carries provision for twenty-seven months, and is commanded by Signor Hovgaard, an officer of the Danish navy, who took part with Lieutenant Bove in the celebrated expedition of Nordenskjold."

Some boundless contiguity of shade," where a good Christian Republican can go and work off a reverential, soul-reviving, heart-satisfying "d—n it?"

Chauncy Noteware is not a candidate for the office of Warden of the Penitentiary or any other "within the gift", etc. These stories originate with men who when they see a stranger in town immediately reach the conclusion that he is after some fat office. A man cannot come to Carson from Virginia or Reno but that he is suspected of wanting to get in somewhere or steal a public building and lug it off in a grip sack.—[Carson Appeal.]

OLD TUSCARORA.

[Times-Review.]

The present town of Tuscarora is two and a half miles in an easterly direction from the place which prior to the development of the Grand Prize was known by that name. Some eight or ten white men and a hundred and fifty or more Chinamen constituted the entire population of the town. Placer or deep diggings was the principal mining interest attended to. The Beard brothers, fresh from a good clean up in Newark district, after constructing the old ford known as the adobe, on McCan Creek, turned their attention to lead or ledge locations. On the slope of the mountains and in the gulches that have been known as Eureka, Garden and Shoecraft gulches, over three hundred thousand dollars in gold dust has been taken out, and at the head of these gulches old quartz prospects naturally looked for the "mother of gold," and hence numerous locations were made. Many of those locations still remain in the hands of the original locators, and on them have been very extensive expenditures. The subsequent development of Grand Prize and adjacent veins related to a great extent the enthusiasm with which work on the first locations was prosecuted, temperment of the Beards been aroused to pursue their investigations. The ledges on the South end are found to be very large and well defined, but thus far in silver have been found to compare favorably with other and later locations. Cutting this reference to the old district short, will say that the Tornado, and Modoc, belonging to the Beard brothers, and the Basin and other mines owned by Wm Ford, bid fair to become valuable properties, and that during the Winter they will be thoroughly prospected with every hope of bringing light rich deposits of gold and silver ore. Where so much gold has been found in the gulches, its fountain head cannot be far away.

"A Sure Thing."

"Have you eaten that pie?" Bertie Cecil spoke in husky tones, but in them there was a world of meaning that Esmeralda W. Pike, coquet though she was could not mistake. Turning away, she began plucking to pieces a rose which she held in her hand, and as the leaves fell one by one upon the carpet their vivid color seemed to have been transferred to the girl's face, for over the pure features there swept a crimson blush, and in the soft brown eyes there were tears of longing and regret.

"Can you not speak?" he said. The beautiful face was turned toward him; now he read the answer in her eyes, and he folded her in his arms. This time the beautiful face turned pale as death as his lips met hers, and the hand he clasped fluttered and trembled like a frightened bird. The shadows fell darker and darker through the window and the night clasped the earth in a solemn embrace, but over their lives had suddenly risen a beautiful day, made all the brighter and more glorious for the shadows and sorrows that had preceded it.

"It is gone," Esmeralda whispered, her arm stealing shyly around his neck.

"Then," said Bertie, in tones, that were tremulous with joy "I have won my bet."—[From "A Sure Thing," by Muriel Halstead.]
